To the Booksellers of London, Westminster, &c.

THis Essay is set on foot to gratifie the Desires, and answer the Expectations of several Gentlemen of the Profession. The way of Selling Books by Auction being generally approved of as beneficial to the Society when sold amongst its Members: Their meeting together upon these Occasions, as it manifestly tends to the informing of each others Judgment, promoting of Friendship, and settling a more amicable and free Correspondence in point of Trade. It's further Propos'd, That the Method which is highly Commendable, and for its Antiquity Venerable, shall be continued, viz. of eating and drinking together; as being thought by the most Judicious the most effectual Introduction to the Sale: To which Entertainment all Persons of the Calling are heartily Invited at one of the Clock on Thursday the 18th of this Instant 1690, by your known Friend

E. M.

It's desired that the Company would be pleased to come at Nine in the Morning, designing to sell before Dinner. The following Days the Sale will be continued from Four every Afternoon to Nine. The Sorts inquires, Impressions, and priviledged Goods, with the Bibles, &c. will be exposed to Sale within Few Days after this Sale is ended.

Condi-

Conditions of Sale.

I. That he who bids most is the Buyer ; and if any Difference ariseth, which the Company cannot decide, the said Book or Books shall be exposed to Sale again.

II. The Buyer to be obliged to collate his Books at the Place of Sale, and to take them away within a Week after the Sale is ended.

III. Upon the Delivery of the Books so sold, every one that Buys under the value of Ten Pounds to pay ready Money ; and every one that Buys above the value of Ten Pounds to pay in three Months, and give Bill for the same ; or upon present Payment to have three Months Discount allowed at Six per Cent.

IV. That if any of the said Books, shall upon collating appear to be Imperfect, the said Book or Books to be made Perfect within one Week after Notice given, or the Price they were Sold at to be deducted.
